ELECTRICITY IS LIFE

by Electricity as Practiced by Dr. Darrin.

(Oregonian Dec. 7, 1891.)

The close resemblance of electricity o what is known as nerve force, has led ome scientists to believe that these wo potent forces are identical. Varous experiments show, however, that his theory cannot be substantiated.

This invisible electric current, when guided by a skillful operator, acts directly upon the many tissues of the its principal effects being produced brough the medium of the nerves, Organs acting too slowly can be quickened to proper activity, while ther organs in a morbid state of activity can, by its use, be restored to their natural state.

It requires long study and experience to become sufficiently familiar with the physical condition of patients and he principles and construction of batteries to produce the most desireable results. Dr. Darrin's wonderful success is alone sufficient to verify the statement that is a thorough electrician and medical practitioner, as the following cures show:

Wm. Altnow, Drewsey, Grant county, Or .- Catarrhal deafness and ringing in the ears for twenty years, perfectly cured.
